

Data Protection

Please note that as the Data Protection Act has changed with the introduction of the General Data Protection Regulations, and as we hold your contact details, we must comply.

The personal data you may have given to register a vehicle to display (name, phone number and email address) will be protected in accordance with the GDPR by Rob Heard, Concorde Classics Show manager.

The data we have for you will be used for informative purposes only about the show and nothing else. The data will not be shared without your express permission. You may revoke your consent at any time by e-mailing concorde.classics@gmail.com . If you choose to do so, we will delete the contact details that we have for you.

Privacy Policy

We take the privacy of our attendees and web visitors seriously. To this end, we do not collect visitor data and we certainly do not transfer any data to third parties, without your permission.

We only hold the name, phone number and email address of Cars display attendees and traders. These details are held exclusively for the purposes of informing people of the show and joining instructions. We will not transfer them to anyone without your permission.

Cookies Policy

General Definitions

“We” – Concorde Classics

“Cookie(s)” – Data files that websites place on computers or other mobile devices of people who visit those websites.

“This Website” = www.concordeclassics.co.uk

General & Legislative Compliance

Cookies are data files that websites place on computers or other mobile devices of people who visit those websites.

Websites, whether representing an individual or company, based in or targeting consumers in any EU/EEA country must inform users about the use of Cookies on their website through the use of a Cookie policy. End-users visiting these websites must be given the opportunity to consent to the use of Cookies. A website’s Cookie policy must be distinct from its privacy policy.

Active Cookies

Cookies help to customise and improve your end-user experience. However, this Website does not currently directly use any cookies.

Unless otherwise stated in this policy, we are not responsible for the Cookies of other websites or sub-domains of This Website, whether linked to from or embedded in This Website.

Unless otherwise stated, sub-domains of This Website will have their own Cookie policy with its own compliance requirements.

Cookie Settings

Cookies are not currently in use on this Website, so there are currently no settings applicable to Cookies.

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to get in touch at concorde.classics@gmail.com or phone Rob Heard on 02380 842453